Workshop: Molecular Biology for the Nephrologist

25—29 March 1998, Praha, Czech Republic

The Joint Action Nephrology Eastern Europe (ISN, ERA, Kuratorium Gesellschaft Nephrologie) will organize a 1-week workshop to familiarize nephrologists, preferably nephrologist in training, with current methodology in molecular biological techniques. The course will be directed by three molecular biologists (Dr Susanne Schmidt, Heidelberg; Dr Lise Tarnow, Kopenhagen and Prof.
Martin Paul, Berlin). The local organizer is Dr Ivan Rychlik, Praha.
The philosophy of the course is to provide «learning by doing».
Participants are expected to carry out relevant analyses under supervision while participating in the course. The course provides lectures, updates and group discussions as well as practical training.

Ist International Congress on Immunointervention in Nephrology

30 April—2 May 1998, Cagliari, Sardinia, Italy

Organized by: Department of Nephrology, Ospedale S. Michele, Cagliari, Italy (P.Alteri) and Division of Nephrology, Ospedale Maggiore IRCCS, Milan, Italy (C.Ponticelli).

The meeting will deal with new therapeutical strategies in kidney transplantation (April 30 — May 1) and clinical and therapeutical aspects of lupus nephritis (May 2). The program will include lectures from invited international speakers, round tables, poster presentations and free communications. The aims of the meeting are to present an update of the emerging immunomodulating drugs and discussing the best immunosuppressive strategies in kidney transplantation, and to review some aspects of lupus nephritis, such as the APA/LAC syndrome and factors affecting long-term outcome, as well as discussing lupus nephritis therapy.

Tuition is US$200. Deadline for abstract submission is January 15, 1998. For further information please contact:
